Dear Sir,

I enclose you a letter for Dr. Darbrey, the Professor of Botany at Oxford. About 4 years ago he made a tour in the United States. You may have been with him at Washington. I also enclose letters for Mr. Wetherell [pronounced]...
Hewell) Master of Trinity College, Cambridge.
One of the most distinguished philosophical writers of the day:—Charles Douglas a young American son of Capt. Douglas, former ly professor of Engineering at West Point, now President of Kenyon College Ohio. He has passed through a regular four years course of study at Cambridge with reputation, but being a foreigner could not have a degree."

I am, Dear Doctor,

Sincerely Yours,

Edward Everett.
