1. Fighting prostitution in the Soviet Republic is done through Anti-Prostitution Soviets with the active participation of labor unions, women’s groups, and komsomol through departments of health, labor, social welfare, jurisdiction, and law enforcement.

2. Protection of maternity and childhood, protection of female labor, improvement of qualification of female labor, combating unemployment among women, combating homelessness among women and children, political and health-oriented education, protection of the women’s legal rights, organization of labor sanitariums, combating brothels and solicitation.

3. These are the ways in which the Soviet government is conducting the battle against prostitution.